

Save the Date!

Women of Color RoundTable
The 7th Annual National Women & Girls HIV/AIDS Awareness Day

Presents

“You Are a Queen!”

Produced by AWARE

About the production... “You Are The Queen” is a theatre and lyrical art performance highlighting the power of black women and our relationships with them. This production combines theatre arts with lyrical art performances highlighting the power of black women, their journeys and their relationships. This assortment creatively weaves together poetry, monologues, dialogues and forum theatre to form a work of inspiration for black women and their communities.

About AWARE... Aware is a theatre ensemble committed to community edutainment, promoting awareness on matters of social justice with a special commitment to HIV/AIDS. Emphasizing theatre that is “for the people” and “by the people”; AWARE uses innovative techniques that invite audience participation, and uses fun to inspire us to think, engage and build relationships.

Thursday, March 15, 2012

5:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.

production starts at 6:00

Roxbury Center for the Arts at Hibernian Hall
184 Dudley Street

- ⇒ Resource Fair starting at 5:00
- ⇒ Free Giveaway's
- ⇒ Free and Confidential on-site HIV testing
- ⇒ Dinner will be served!

This event is FREE to the public!